

HR Record Retention Policy

Sample Policy Document

This document is anonymized sample content for demonstration purposes.
It does not reference a real company, institution, client, person, or location.

Policy Statement

The organization retains human resources records for business, operational, legal, and compliance purposes. Records are maintained securely and disposed of when retention requirements are satisfied.

Retention

Employee records, payroll records, benefit records, recruiting records, and workplace investigation records are retained according to the applicable retention schedule.

Access

Access to personnel records is limited to authorized personnel with a legitimate business need. Confidential records must not be shared outside approved processes.

Administration

Questions about this sample policy may be directed to the human resources team.
